The object for which the Association was formed, as set forth in the Articles of Incorporation, is to "erect monuments and monumental structures to commemorate the virtues, sacrifices and patriotism of the Union Soldiers and Sailors in the Civil War, and to keep and preserve arms, records, flags, relics and other valuable mementoes of the War of the Rebellion."

Prior to the organization of this Association the Legislature of the State of Illinois passed a special Act to organize a corporation known as the Soldiers'

Home of the City of Chicago, an outgrowth of the Great Sanitary Fair of 1865.

By further Act of the General Assembly, approved June 4th, 1889, this latter organization was authorized to erect and maintain a Soldiers' Memorial Hall on the north one-quarter of Dearborn Park, the present location.

On the 26th day of December, 1890, by resolution of the Soldiers' Home Corporation, the President and Secretary of that organization were authorized and directed to execute and deliver to the Grand Army Hall and Memorial Association of Illinois a power of attorney, authorizing the said association to transfer, set over and convey all the right, title and interest which the Soldiers' Home had acquired to the Dearborn Park Property, upon such terms and conditions as might be agreed to.

In 1891 a bill was introduced in the legislature at Springfield and afterwards passed, authorizing the Chicago Public Library to erect on the ground known as Dearborn Park a library building, but with the provision that no building shall be erected on the north one-quarter of said ground by the Chicago Public Library until it has obtained by purchase or otherwise whatever interest the Soldiers' Home in Chicago acquired in the same by the Act before referred to. An agreement was then entered into between the Library and the Soldiers' Home Corporation by the Grand Army Hall and Memorial Association, as attorney in fact, which provided for the conveyance to the Library of all interest acquired by the Soldiers' Home to the north one-quarter of said Dearborn Park. The Chicago Public Library on its part, the agreement recites, "is to erect, without unreasonable delay, a building, in the second story of which they are to construct a Grand Army Hall, together with such other smaller halls or ante-rooms as may be required; the architecture of such hall shall be of such style as to give it the distinctive character of a Grand Army Memorial Hall, which character it shall forever retain and by which title it shall forever be known."

“When said Hall is constructed the Library shall execute a lease of same at a nominal rental to the Grand Army Hall and Memorial Association.”

This agreement further provides, “That flags, paintings, portraits of distinguished generals and men of the country connected with the late Civil War, and valuable relics and mementoes of the War shall be kept and forever preserved in said Grand Army Hall.”

To provide for the furnishing of the Hall and its adjacent offices and rooms, a bill was passed by the General Assembly, reciting,

“That it is eminently fitting that the great State of Illinois that furnished a Lincoln, a Grant, a Logan, and 250,000 men to save the Union, should maintain in its principal commercial metropolis some memorial structure that shall not only perpetuate the memory of her distinguished sons, but also bear witness to all coming generations that the patriotic deeds of those who in less conspicuous positions served their country in the day of its peril shall never be forgotten.”

In 1898 the Public Library Building, including the Memorial Hall, was completed and leased to the Grand Army Hall and Memorial Association at a nominal rental as provided in the agreement.

Under this lease the uses to which the premises can be put, are as follows:

“That said party of the second part” (that is, the Grand Army Hall and Memorial Association) “will not use nor allow said premises to be used for any purpose nor in any manner that will increase the rate of insurance thereon, nor to be occupied in whole or in part by any person or organization other than said organizations of Union Soldiers and Sailors of the late Civil War having their headquarters in Cook County, will not sublet said premises or any part thereof except to such organizations of Union Soldiers and Sailors as aforesaid, and will not assign this lease, and will not permit any transfer by operation of law of the interest in said premises acquired through this lease and will not make or permit to be made any material alteration of or upon any part of said premises and will not permit the marbles or finish of said premises to be cut or defaced."

To the maintenance of these covenants the Grand Army Hall and Memorial Association stands solemnly charged.

And now under the guardianship of this Association the care and custody of the Hall and its precious mementoes rests, until the expiration of the lease in 1948, at which time the Public Library assumes the perpetual custody of this temple of patriotism.

EXTRACT FROM THE RECORDS OF THE GRAND ARMY HALL AND MEMORIAL ASSOCIATION OF ILLINOIS.

At a stated meeting of the Board of Directors of the Grand Army Hall and Memorial Association of Illinois, Director Walter R. Robbins submitted the following Preamble and Resolution:

Whereas

The Birthday of Abraham Lincoln—the martyred President of the United States—occurs on the 12th day of February, and inasmuch as no society or organization in the State of Illinois commemorates the natal day of this great man—the apostle of justice and human rights, it is most fitting that the Grand Army Hall and Memorial Association of Illinois, composed as it is, of men who were in the service of the United States as soldiers and sailors during the War of the Rebellion should in some appropriate manner manifest their reverence for his memory.

Therefore be it resolved,

That commencing on the 12th day of February

in the year 1900 and on each succeeding 12th day of February—a day so hallowed in the hearts of men of all nations—the Association shall assemble in its sacred hall for this purpose and that we invite a suitable person on each occasion to make an address on the Life and Character of Abraham Lincoln.

The Preamble and Resolution were unanimously adopted.

Director Walter R. Robbins then moved that a committee of three be appointed to arrange for the Lincoln Day celebration.

The President then appointed Directors Robbins, Blodgett and Hawes the committee. Dr. William Jayne of Springfield, Illinois, a life long friend of Mr. Lincoln, accepted an invitation to make the first address. Here follow the names of the men who favored the Association and honored themselves in making the address:
